WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 19 .- The unexpected happened to-day. President Cleveland sent to the Senate the name of Senator Edward D. White of Louisiana for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. So far as known, the name of Senator White had not been canvassed by any of his friends or the supporters of the Administration to fill the place for which Hornblower and Peckham were re-Sected.

The nomination was a complete surprise to every one. Senator Hill and the Republican members who have been questioned say there is little doubt of Mr. White's confirma-

Mother of an Illegitimate Child Loses Her Damage Suit.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 19,-The legal relationship of a mother to her illegitimate was to-day settled by the Supreme Court in the case of Nannie Marshall vs. th Wabash Railroad Co.

It was shown at the trial that the father recognized neither mother nor son, nor contributed in anywise to their support. The boy had lived with his mother and was supported solely by her. An illegitimate child under common law is 'mellius fellius,' the son of nobody, has no Inheritable blood, nor can any but the child of such a person inherit such property. The law of this state provides that the parents shall inherit the property of a 'natural' child. The court makes the word 'natural' to The court makes the word 'natural

The court makes the word patents to mean legitimate, legal. Under such a construction of the law as ruled by the lower court the mother lost.

This opinion amends the law in liberal construction of the statute. The court finds that as the father ignored the child, and that he ing was wrong, and that the mother was filled to prosecute the case alone, and re-ses the judgment of the lower court and ands the cause for a new trial.

Clara Howard Has Fled From St.

Was One of the Chief Witnesses in the Duestrow Case.

The Woman Left Last Night and Her Trunk Followed To-Day.

and Most Uncompromising Poss of THE TRUNK CHECKED TO CHICAGO, WHERE SHE PROBABLY NOW IS.

> She Has Been Laying Low for Sev eral Days - Value of Her Evidence - How Duestrow Will Be Tried-Funeral of Mrs. Duestrow From St. Kevin's Church To-Day.

Clara Howard, the mistress of wife and child-murderer Arthur Duestrow, has fled to Chicago She disappeared from the disreputable house kept by her at 816 South Fourteenth street on Friday night last. At first it was sed that she had merely refuge in some other locality supposed of this city to avoid any unpleasant conse quences which might follow the discovery hat she had been Duestrow's mistress and that it was at her house he had spent the forenoon of the day in which he killed his vife and little son.

It is now certain, however, that the Howard woman has left St. Louis and that Chi-cago was the objective point of her flight. This morning her trunk was sent down to the baggage-room of the Union Depot and from there checked to Chicago. It was checked over the Chicago & Alton Railroad, the train on which it was forwarded leaving St. Louis at 8:45 o'clock this morning. The trunk was expressed to the Chicago & Alton Depot, in Chicago.

Clara Howard herself was not seen at the Union Depot. It is likely that she has already gone to Chicago and that her trunk was forwarded to reach her there under orders received from her since her flight. Clara Howard's housekeeper of 816 South Fourteenth street, stoutly maintained, when asked this morning about the former's whereabouts, that she was in the city, was then taking a drive and would return before evening. The trunk, she claimed, was sent from 814 South Fourstreet. Inquiry at this house, disclosed the fact that a trunk had been shipped to-day to a Miss Murphy of Chicago from No. 814. The occupants of the adjoin ing house had seen nothing of Clara Howard for several days.

Peter Masterson, keeper of a livery stable at sign South Fourteenth street, said he had not seen the Howard woman for two or three days. She nsually drives a good deal. He was sure he would have seen her had she left for a drive this morning.

Captain of Police Boyd said he had positive information that Clara Howard left for Chicago last enging.

become frightened and fied of her own accord.

It was almost directly from her disreputable house that Dr. Duestrow returned to his own home on the day of the tragedy. On Friday of last week Clara Howard made a statement before Chief Herrigan, detailing the facts of Duestrow's acquaintace with her and of his actions on that day. Her evidence was regarded as bearing against Duestrow, and it was given unwillingly by her. She was to have appeared at the Four Courts at 10 o'clock on Friday, and not having appeared at noon an officer was sent to her house to bring her before the chief. She then explained that her slowness in reporting had been caused by the clock in her house being siow. Immediately after making her statement to Chief Harrigan the woman disappeared.

siow. Immediately after making her statement to Chief Harrigan the woman disappeared.

Until this morning no clew had been obtained as to whither she had flown. To-day the Post-Dispatch was enabled to learn the fact of the shipment of her trunk to Chicago, thus indicating that this missing Duestrow witness had chosen that city as her hiding place. It should not be difficult, following this discovery, for the State to locate her in Chicago and so have her available in the case against Duestrow.

The trunk was checked at the Union Depot here by Bagageman Steele. A description of the trunk can be obtained from Mr. Steele, who comes on duty again at the Union Depot this evening.

If Clara Howard's testimony in the Duestrow case was likely to have proved so strong against Dr. Duestrow that his friends have seen fit to advise this flight, the State may now discount this by taking steps at once to locate Chara Howard in the Chicago. If the woman herself has merely become frightened and flown of her own accord, she can be located and brought back to testify in full as to her knowledge of facts bearing on the Duestrow tragedy.

The fact that she has fied to Chicago is established by the checking of her trunk to that city. It should not be difficult to locate her there.

As Duestrow's mistress and the woman with whom he spent almost the entire forenoon of the day of the tragedy, her evidence is most important. It will establish plainer than any other testimony could the condition in which Dr. Duestrow was on that day. In a case where sudden insanity is likely to be the line of defense this evidence is indispensable.

THE POST-MORTEM EXAMINATION.

The post-mortem examination of the body of Mrs. Arthur Duestrow, held yesterday by Dr. Frank in the presence of Drs. C. C. Bernays, C. J. Luytles, E. F. Hauck and J. S. About a week before the tragedy Sergt. Murray says that a veiled woman, giving her address as somewhere on South Compton avenue, asked for police protection against her husband at the Central District. She was referred to the Fifth District. Sergt. Murray thinks this might have been Mrs. Duestrow, as the resemblance was strong. The clew is being followed up.

Claim Agent Thomas Barron of the Union Depot Railway Co, is fast acquiring a reputation for versatile ingenuity in the defense tation for versatile ingenuity in the defense of personal damage suits against his employers. He not only succeeds in collecting testimony of a very strong character, but he is even accused of taking an occasional flyer at jury-fixing. Among the papers in the case of Thomas Conley vs. the East St. Louis Electric Railway Co. are affidavits of the plaintiff's attorneys and others charging that Thomas Barron was very active in hunting up witnesses for a week before the ease was tried; that he had as a companion in the preliminary work a negro named Wm. Patrick Conley, who lost a foot in the St. Clairavenue accident in 1892. He lost his case, but his attorneys have taken an appeal and will file the foregoing and other affidavits in support of their petition. In this case also appeared John Lowe, who was almost the only witness examined for the defense. Lowe, however, had not been heard of in the case previously tried, of Patrick Cauley against the same defendant. On that trial Barron was equally active and introduced depositions of the company was blameless for the accident. The amount of the judgment and costs is $8,008, and unless it shall be paid to-day the plaintiff's autorneys, Jesse M. Freels of East St. Louis and Amos R. Taylor of St. Louis will levy on the property of the railroad. These are the cases in which the reliability of Lowe's testimony were first called into question. Lowe was not heard of in the first damage suit, and although he claimed to be an eye-witness of the accident on which both cases were based, and although Thomas Barron had worked up the company's testimony in both cases, Lowe swore that he had never met Barron until the morning of the day of the second trial. This statement is seriously doubted because of the fact that while the case of Thomas Cauley was stried last September, Barron had taken a "deposition" from Lowe in a St. Louis case in the succeeding July. There she met a young lady named Emma Woods, who introduced her to number of the people in town, among them Dr. Ro number of the people in the town, among them Dr. Roberts. The doctor seemed rather charmed with the ways of the young milliner and paid many attentions to her. After she left there he, it is said, visited her at her home in Martinsburg, and after she came to St. Louis two months ago and engaged board at Mrs. Murphy's boarding-house, No. 1225 Washington avenue. She seemed rather lonesome here by herself, so she went to Martinsburg and brought her younger sister, Cynthia, with her. About a month ago her sister took sick, dangerously so, and so Mattle brought her mother on here to nurse the sick girl. But Dr. Roberts also came on. Three weeks ago Saturday night he made a flying trip down from Albion to see Misr Walker, took her cut, pa'd many attentions to her, and then went back home the followine Tuesday. Last Monday, however, he came back and took a room at the boarding-housh at 122 Washington avenue. He brought with him his trunk, his guiter and an Engliss setter with four pups. The dogs he piaced in Mrs. Murphy's cellar. Every day he would go in to feed the dogs very often, and every time he would go to feed the dogs he would call on Miss Mattle Walker, who roomed upstairs. Mattle's sister had gotten worse by this time, however, and her father as well as her mother had been summoned to her bedside. When Roberts called Mr. Walker asked who he was, and was told if was "Mattle's discounted in the side." Roberts own. this time, however, and her father as well as her mother had been summoned to her bedside. When Roberts called Mr. Walker asked who he was, and was told if was "Mattie's fellow." He told the "fellow" he couldn't come up to that room to see Mattie but he managed to see her downstairs, though. He told every one that Mattie was his girl, and that he was going to marry her. He seemed not only fascinated with Mattie but the whole family. "If those three girls," he is reported to have said, meaning Mattie and her two sisters, "were put in a row I would pick any one of them blindfolded and marry them." When asked why he came here, he said to bring his dogs to the dog show, which, he said, was to be held here in March. He would call on Mattie at all hours during the day. One day he is said to have taken her out at hight because her father would not allow him to. He did not seem to do any work while he was here, but seemed to have plenty of money and bent on having a good time with his 'girl.' Saturday evening the father went home and the pair would no doubt have had allowed ty time had not another woman appeared on the scene yester-day afternoon. She called at the Belevelere other woman appeared on the scene yester day afternoon. She called at the Belveder Hotel, corner of Thirteenth stree and Washington avenue yesterday afternoon with a child in her arms and asked afternoon with a crita in her arms and asked if her husband, Dr. Roberts, was stopping there. She thought he might be there for the reason that he had, written her a letter on Hotel Belvedere stationery. He was not there, but she was advised to try the boarding-house across the street. This she did and found him in the front room on the third floor of 1221.

FLED AT HER APPROACH When she confronted him he was amaze but not wishing to indulge in an argument wherein he knew he had the wrong side, he fled from the house across the street past the Belvedere and disappeared down Fourteenth street. She followed, but could not catch him. Then Mrs. Roberts went to Mrs. Murphy's house and demanded an interview with Mattle Walker, Mrs. Murphy refused to allow her do this, saying she did not want any trouble in her house. Mrs. Roberts was indignant and insisted on seeing her, but Mrs. Murphy positively declined to grant her request. Then she left and went to Mrs. Gray's boarding-house at 1225 Washington javenue where she accidentally met her husband again. He stood his ground this time and she wildly rebuked him and he became penitent. So he took his wife over to Mrs. Murphy's and acknowledged to that lady that he had been married for five years. Then they went to his room where they and their baby remained all night. This morning he went out for a walk and she went to Mrs. Murphy's house and watched for Mattle Walker but Mattle was apparently afraid to come down-stairs. Then after waiting an hour or two she returned to her room, where she was seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter and asked how she happened to come to St. Louis. She is quite a pretty little woman, quiet and refined and was dressed in a short sealistin sacque and a light brown dress frimmed in bronze-green cord. She talked very calmly, saying:

I don't care particularly to see her but I'd like to see her mother and tell her what I know of her daughter. I am trying to get my husband to go back with me tonight. Whether he will go, I can't say. I hope he will, for he is going to wreck here, the has been drinking violently since he has known her."

MISS WALKER'S STORY. Miss Walker when seen at Mrs. Murphy' boarding-house denied most emphatically that she knew he was a married man.

"I would not have considered his attentions for an instant," said she; "II Mrs. Roberts was ever in my store I never knew it. And now that I know he in married I shan't have anything more to do with him."

The Police Department in Need of Men and Money.

An Unfortunate Reduction of the Force Now Threatened.

WILL LEAVE MATTERS IN A MOST DE-PLORABLE CONDITION.

The City May Be Left Without Sufficient Protection Because There Has Not Been Enough Money Appropriated to Pay the Already Too Small Force-Men Who Have Faithfully Performed Their Duty Will Be Dropped if Funds Are Not Secured-Needs of the Department.

The Police Board finds itself in a very ugly predicament and unless some means are devised to raise money with which to pay the men until the appropriation for the next fiscal year is made, it is probable that they will take some action to reduce the already insufficient force. This would be most deplorable as it would leave the department short-handed at a time when its needs were most, as crime was never so bad sil over the country as at present. It is claimed that there is claimed is no way of bridging over the difficulty that, unfortunate as the step be, it is almost certain will that the board will decide to let out thirty or forty men for lack of funds to pay them. There are still two months' paid before the beginning of another fiscal year and the appropriation is almost exhausted. The Police Commissioners say they find themselves forced to choose between two evils-reducing salaries or reducing the force. Crime is rampant in the city. Every man now on the force is needed and more, too, to keep the thieves and thugs from getting the upper hand of and order. For years e efforts have been made to have the force in creased, and at the beginning of the present year the Municipal Assembly was asked to appropriate $144,000 for 200 more men, but this was refused. Now there must be still further reductions. If not the board is liable to find its own members held responsible for the payment of the officers' salaries. An ordinance forbids a reduction of salaries, so there is nothing left to be don but lop off enough men to keep within the appropriation. And even when this has been decided upon there will be difficulty in choosing whom to let go. Charges must be choosing whom to let go. Charges must be preferred in order to dismiss a man, and altogether things are in a pretty mess.

The Board of Police Commissioners will take up the problem at to-morrow's meeting and decide upon its course. City Counseior Marshall has been asked his opinion as to the legal status of the commissioners in the matter and his report will be submitted to guide them in their action.

Chief of Police Lawrence Harrigan thought it a delicate matter for him to discuss. He feared that his remarks would he taken as a

"Instead of being cut down it should be increased. Every day I have applications from citizens in the outlying districts for more police protection, but I am powerless. We are giving the people of this town the best service we can under the existing conditions."

"If it came to a choice between reducing the force or the salaries of the men, which the force or the salaries of the men, which would you choose?"

"Well, I certainly don't think the officers of this department are paid any too much money, but I believe the pay of the men is settled by law, so there could be no change in this without the Assembly passed an ordinate of the men is settled by law, so there could be no change in this without the Assembly passed an ordinate of the men is settled by law.

Comptroller Sturgeon characterized the talk about the necessity for more men on the Comptroller Sturgeon characterized the talk about the necessity for more men on the force as "poppycock."

"They first talk of increasing and then decreasing the police force. That is only to have a sensation. Policemen don't prevent crime; they only detect it. It hundreds of additional policemen were scattered all over town, there would be murders just the same. Then you must remember that there are 600 night watchmen who are paid by the citizens. That makes a force of 1,800 men. Why don't they put more men on at night and fewer in the day? Most crimes are committed at night.

"If the police department are profligate—I don't say that they are—they must bear the consequences. The commissioners should not have appointed the extra men. They knew the city was poor. They were given so much to run the department on and it's their own fault if they have spent more.

"I am willing to do what I can to accommodate them, but I do not propose to break my oath of office and violate the state constitution by turning money over to them which does not belong to them."

It may be said in justice to the police department that it is the only branch of the city government where the employes do not receive pay during short terms of illness. In some or the departments a man can be sick for months and receive his pay. A sin gle day's sickness on the part of a policeman causes him the loss of that portion of his salery. That the force is inadequate to a city the size of St. Louis all must concede. It will be a hardship to lay off any of the men now, particularly as there are no charges against them. To lay off men who had been performing their duty as faithfully as the police have the present hard winter is a most unfortunate step which now seems absolutely necessary to be taken.

Police Commissioner John A. Lee explained

POLICE COMMISSIONER LEE'S VIEWS. Police Commissioner John A. Lee explained the dilemma of the board in the following in-

"I have been away and was not at the last

terview:

'I have been away and was not at the last board meeting, but had an interview with the Comptroller before leaving St. Louis and understand the situation. We have appropriasion for carrying only 635 patrolmen, but an ordinance was some time since passed permitting the board to utilize any surplus accumulated from sick time or furlough time (which is not paid for) for carrying additional men. We, have therefore been carrying from 675 to 665 men.

'The last Legislature passed a bill giving to each member of the force two days' holiday a month, and the result has been that the furlough time has been unusually small, and the act seems to have had a hygienic effect, as the sickness during the past winter has been exceedingly infrequent.

I think the act was just and equitable, as our policemen work tweive hours a day, Sundays and tweek days, without intermission, and they should certainly have two days a month for recreation.

'The result, however, is as stated, and in order to keep within our appropriation it looks as if we would have to drop from the rolls about thirty-five or forty men.

'Whether this can be done without preferment of charges or not I can not say. I think the best plan would be to call upon the Unief and captains for a classification of effects, and a preferment of charges of insecessary against some of those who are not solver and are negligent in the discharge of their duy.

"All the various funds of the department are nearly exhausted, as the appropriation is the decimal of their duy.

"All the various funds of the department are nearly exhausted, as the appropriation is to the department and carry exhausted, as the appropriation is the decimal of their duy.

They charged an admission fee of 10 cents, and on this small fee realized $23.60, which was turned over to the Lake Fund last night. The idea of giving a party to add in helping the unemployed and to establish a lake in Forest Park originated with Lillian Whitelaw and Pearl Boyer, two bright little misses, who got up an entertainment last summer for the Summer Camp for the relief of poor mothers and babies, which netted the camp fund $40. The party yesterday was a most successful affair.

There were over 200 present and these were ushered to places from which they could see and hear by Masters Colon White and Luther Bridges. Before the party commenced the collowing programme was rendered by the children.

Kings County Board of Supervisors. That office carried with it membership on all the town boards. He became Chief of Police. Commissioner of Excise, and commissioner of Excise, and commissioner of everything size in sight.

From that moment he ruled as the dictator of the town. His authority in every branch of government was undisputed. Every person who wanted a privilege, a permit, or a concession had to apply to McKane. His word was law, and law was broken or en lorced in conformity to his will.

With his rise to political supremacy his personal fortunes steadily advanced. His services as a builder were constantly in demand. The railroad companies, the hotel men and the divekeepers sought to propitiate him by availing themselves of his work. For their patronage he returned his friendship and "protection." The patrons of McKane the carpenter were seidom interfered with by McKane the Chief of Police.

McKane the Chief of Police.

McKane's personal behavior was always a subject of comment to observers of his carreer. His carriage at his home in Sheepshead Bay was that of a Dr. Jekyll. His associations at West Brighton were those of a Mr. Hyde. At Sheepshead Bay he was the leading member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and Superintendent of the Sunday-school. At West Brighton he was constantly in contact with poolsellers, liquor dealers, prise fighters and other unsavory persons.

While he was reading the weekly lesson to his Sunday-school pupils, scenes of revelry and disorder were being enacted with his knowledge and consent all over the west end of the Island.

The penalty should be so severe as to express due condemnation, while not so severe as to excite sympathy. The sentence of the court is that the defendant be imprisoned in Sing Sing State Prison for six years."

There was a dead silence in court for a moment, and then amidst a murmur of voices through the chamber, Judge Bartlett ordered the court to be cleared.

THE CULPRIT UNCONCERNED. When the sentence of six years' imprison ment was pronounced on McKane, the one who seemed to be least affected was the Island. While all this excitement was going on on the outside McKane sat quietly in a chair in front of the Judge's desk, talking to his counsel and now and again nodding or passing a remark to his friends who were leaving the court-room in compliance with the mandate of the Court.

Lawyer Roderick said that an application will be made some time to-day to a Justice of the Supreme Court for a stay of twenty days ponding an appeal.

McKane was taken back to Raymond Street Jail in a coach by Sheriff Buttling about 11 o'clock, and if the stay is not procured to-day he will be taken to sing sing to-morrow, in company with some of the convicts.

wider discussion than any other man in the county.

McKane was two years old when his father emigrated to this country from County Antrim, Ireland, fifty-four years are. The family settled soon after their arrivalisat Sheepshead Bay. The elder McKane bought a modest farming patch, and opened a small store. He was poor and had to struggle hard to sup, port his growing family.

His son, a sturdy and active lad, had little schooling. He worked as a boy for the Dutch farmers of the neighborhood. As he grow up he learned the carpenter's trade. He telled hard, lived framily and enjoyed the good will be the despendent, in early manhood before no part in politics.

The Prisoner's Brief but Emphatic Speech Before the Court-He Claimed

He was invariably accompanied to the capital by a coterie of Gravesenders. He paid their board at the Delavan House, treated them to champagne, and paid all their expenses. They were, like most of his political intimates, a shady lot of camp followers, subsisting on his bounty and the tribute he had wrung from the town. While they were dissipated and unruly, McKane never joined in their excesses. Although he spent his money freely, he neither drank nor smoked. Neither was he ever known to gamble.

Now that McKane has disappeared from the scene his influence in politics and town affairs is practically at an end. His imprisonment will, in all probability, be the signal for a break up of the McKane "Phalaux" which has so proudly marched down Pennsylvania avenue in Washington at the linauguration of two Presidents of the United States. Stryker Williams is politically McKane's residuary legatee, but he has neither the ambition to be "boss" nor the material of which "bosses" are made.

"Your Honor, I appear for the defendant, Mr. John Y. McKane. I move for a new trial under sec. 465 code of criminal proceedure, subdivisions 5 and 6."

Judge Bartlett denied the motion.

Mr. James then asked for an arrest of judgment on the ground that the facts as stated in the indictment do not constitute a crime.

This was also denied.

Then Mr. James asked the court to take into consideration that the defendant had never been convicted of any felony and that his previous good character be taken into consideration.

Judge Bartlett said he did not see any circumstances which would warrant such discretion. Mr. James then asked for a stay of execution of judgment for twenty days to enable the defendant to move on a notice for certificate of reasonable doubt.

Mr. Sheppard said that it would be better for defendant's counsel to wait until sentence be pronounced before making this application.

Grounds - Happenings Under the Court-House Dome. Judge Valliant to-day gave a judgment for the defendant in the case of the State to the use of Nicholas M. Bell, Excise Commissioner, against the St. Louis Club. This is the suit which put to the test the right of the Excise Commissioner to exact a liquor tax from clubs.
The Excise Commissioner in his bill recited that for six months the defendant continuously sold liquor in quantities less than three gallons at its premises on Locust street and Ewing avenue without being licensed as a dramshop-keeper and licensed as a dramshop-keep in violation of the la Missouri and of an act Missouri and of an act of the General Assembly, entitled, "AnjAct to Regulate the Sale of Intoxicating Liquors in the Original Package or Otherwise." The Excise Commissioner prayed that the unlawful acts of the club be inquired into and that its charter be forfeited. The club, in its answer, entered a general denial to the Commissioner's writ, and alleged that it was incorporated to advance by social intercourse the bodily and mental health of its members, to promote the commercial prosperity of St. Louis, and to enjoy a place of friendly intercourse for its members. The answer admitted that the club kept spirituous liquors on its premises, but denied that any part of these liquors had been soid, but claimed that it had been dispensed among its members and such guests as were non-residents, there being charged against the members or guests a sum less than the cost of the purchase and service of the liquor, and that these bills were paid on the first of each month. to dinner. Mrs. Evans sat down with her husband and both appeared to be enjoying their meal. A few minutes after the waiter called to Scott, saying Evans had finished dinner and he wished to take away the things. The Jailer entered, and as heapproached the table the waiter drew a pistol and pointed it at Scott's heart, saying: "Hold up your hands!" The jailer thought it was a joke, but he was paralyzed when Evans draw another glittering pistol from the dinner-tray where it had been concealed by a "Arpkila. The-jailer was in their power, and in response to Evans' demand for him to open the doors, he picked up the keys and walked backward down the stairs with Evans, the waiter following. As both had guns, Scott was powerless. Evans forced the jailer to let him out the side entrance. Once in the street the party was met by ex-mayor Cole. The jailer was walking along in advance of Evans very meekly, and the bandit forced Cole to hold up his hands and to accompany them. Cole thought he had struck a gang of foot-pads, but he went along. This queer procession was next met by City Marshal Morgan, who knew Evans at once. He tried to arrest the bandit, but was shot down. Merrell and Evans then jumped into a newspaper cart and disappeared.

It was just getting dark when the men passed into the street. The electric lights were not burning yet. Spirited horses and a wagon were waiting for the fugitives on the street, the horse became frightened, broke the hitching straps and dashed away. The bandits were then compelled to take a newsboy's horse and cart. Marshal Morgan was shot, the horse became frightened, broke the hitching straps and dashed away. Osterhorn Wins His Divorce Suit. Judge Valliant to-day granted Robert Osterhorn a divorce from Annie Bell Oster-horn and dismissed the defendant's crossbill. They were married June 4, 1889. She still clings to the belief that her father and lover are innocent of the crime imputed to them.

The train robbery took place on Aug. 4, 1892. The robbers got $4,500$. Evans, John and George Sontag did the work. The sontags were laborers. They were formerly connected with the Southern Pacific Co., George as an engineer and John as a brakeman. They came to this State from Mankato, Minn., where it is now said they were implicated in two daring train robberles.

Soon after the robbery George Sontag was captured and is now serving out his sentence in the Penitentiary. Evans and John took to the footbills, where they had many battles with Sheriff's posses, three of the latter losing their lives in the various encounters.

The two bandits were finally captured and, as stated, Sontag died, and Evans was tried and sentenced to imprisonment for life. He was tried for the murder of Marshall Victor Wilson, who met his death at Samson Flat, Sept. 14, 1892.

Wilson and his men were accompanied by two Apache scouts, who had tracked Evans and Sontag to Samson Flat, Just as the party arrived in front of Rancher Young's house the door was thrown open and Evans and Sontag appeared with shotguns at their shoulders. They delivered a broadside from both barrels before the officers could draw their weapons. Then the bandits seized Winchesters and continued to fire into the posse. He alleged further that in July, 1892, she caused him to be arrested for wife abandonment, and failed to prosecute the charge. The defendant in her cross-bill alleged that the plaintiff answered a want ad which she put in the paper in July, 1888, and gave her employment, paid her board at the Woman's Training School and the Woman's Christian Home, and becoming engaged to marry her, requested her to submit to a medical examination by him. When she refused, she alleges, he locked her in a room, and accomplished his desires. When her condition became such that she had to leave the Christian Home, and he refused to marry her, she allged, she submitted to a criminal operation to hide her shame and forced him by threats to marry her. The Post-Dispatch has never attempted to incite a mob to take any prisoner out of the hands of the law and execute upon him the summary vengeance of outraged public sentiment. It is the function of a newspaper to expose crime in high places or low, whether committed by the rich and powerful or by the poor and friendless-to watch and criticise the proceedings of courts, juries and prosecuting officers-to expose their every failure and denounce every miscarriage of public justice-but not to excite popular feeling to a frenzy against any prisoner in jail in advance of his trial or to prevent his get ting a fair trial.

We did not do it in the recent case o John Finn, a poor man, and there is no more reason for doing it in the case of Duestrow, a rich man. It is a feeling which will fix the most intense and jealous scrutiny upon every official, every juror, every witnes that has anything to do with the trial.

RESISTANCE AND SUBSERVIENCY.

Out of the depths of disgruntlement over the failure of its cuckoo net to catch the Missouri Senators the local organ of cuckooism emits the following wail:

Another century or half century may de-cide whether the danger of one-man power in appointments is worse than that of Senatorial combination on appointments. For some years past the country seems to have had more to fear from legislative combina tions than from executive encroachments.

Neither a century nor an hour will be needed to decide this question with men of ordinary common sense and information. The fact is, the question was most wisely decided more than a century ago by some eminent men of rare judgment who laid APPROPRIATIONS for public buildings the foundations of the most successful it either distorted or diseased. #### A FRIENDLY PROJECT

The danger to the Indians of the present tribal system in the Territory and the actual hardships and injustices it inflicts upon the weaker members of the tribes has been clearly exposed by one of the chiefs of the Cherokees.

According to his testimony the worst form of land baronage exists in the Territory. The land being held in common and the disposal of it being in the hands of the Indian Council the best possible opportunity is offered greedy adventurers and the strong men of the tribes to defraud the weak and ignorant. Enormous sections of the land have been fenced in under various pretexts and privilege grants Land barons and their dependents practically control the tribes. The strong absorb the profits of all the land, and the weak are driven to the barren wastes to eke out a half savage existence.

With the lands allotted in severalty nembers of the tribes will be placed on an equality. This equality will be assured for a reasonable length of time until the ignorant Indians can learn to appreciate their advantages. All will be placed under the protection of law and will enjoy the benefits of education and civilization. They will be relieved of the vicious influence of the scoundrels who now make their ountry a place of criminal refuge.

Intelligent consideration of the condi tions existing in the Indian Territory will convince anyone that the change proposed by the Dawes Commission is for the good of the Indians themselves. No true friend of the Indians will attempt to bar the way of progress among them.

ANARCHIST BAVINGS.

The absurdity of the Anarchist idea of progress is well illustrated by the advice | ton now. given by a speaker in London to his hearers to read books on chemicals and so how to manufacture dynamite bombs.

It would not be worth while to notice fair trial. On the contrary, it will aid the balanced people among the respectable officers of the law to get all the facts in the classes are disposed to think that bomb case-to prevent suppression of evidence throwers have a real grievance and that or tampering with witnesses or jurymen- they are really driven to desperation by the bottom of it. to prevent an acquittal upon any false plea | their wrongs. But in not one instance has or false testimony. In comparison with a dynamite assassin been a sufferer in his such an acquittal, hanging would be a own person. These men are usually of good tender mercy to any man who has butch- education and originally of good minds They are all fitted to earn a good living, having been trained for positions exempt in a measure from industrial competition. Many of them are teachers, and made decent living before lunacy set in, as instructors in languages, in which they are often proficient. Others are writers, more or less gifted, always able to turn an honest penny if so disposed. The pretense that they "have nothing to live for, being simply slaves of capitalists," has no foundation save in the diseased fancy of disordered brains. They have no grievance

The only way to account for their strange conduct is on the theory of insanity. This is held by the best alienists and students of criminology, who have on several occasions tested the Anarchist mind and found archist doctrine itself is evidence of madness, for it offers nothing but destruction Its plea is not for justice. It only rails against what it holds to be injustice, which it proposes to get rid of by dissolvbirth to such ideas, which are criminal

It does not seem possible to put an en to these mad doings save by international action designed to prevent the propagandists from finding harbor in any civilize country. This has been often proposed, but free countries have hitherto refused to enter into such an arrangement, because real patriots and legitimate political agitators would suffer along with the madmen.

suse the other was sure to be within the treaty provisions. But so active have the Anarchists become of late that probably despotisms will have to yield and make the distinction insisted apon by free governments.

How the Farmer Is Caught.

From the Chicago Herald. Under the Mckinley tariff the farmer may take $100 worth of wheat to Liverpool and exchange it for $100 worth of goods. But if ne brings the goods back he is stopped at the Custom-house and taxed $50 on them. He ust part withanother $50 worth of wheat before he can get his $100 worth of goods. That is, he must give $150 worth of wheat for $100 worth of goods. Under free trade he would get his $100 worth of goods for $100 worth of wheat, and have $50 worth of wheat left to exchange for other goods or to invest. Now doesn't the farmer think that with wheat at its present price it would stand him in hand to try the free trade plan for awhile? poesn't he think he could survive a little onger if he could keep the whole of that vretchedly lowprice instead of having one third of it taxet away from him? Distributed Seditious Circulari Among the Workingmen and Military -The Revolutionary Headquarters in Siebenbrunnengasse-How the Police Discovered and Captured the Gang.

Anarchists arrested in September last, charged with conspiring against the life of Emperor Francis Joseph, began to-day. The defense asked that part of the proceedings be made public, but the court ruled that the caedings promise to be memorable in the hi most sensational and romantic on record.

The trial of these twelve men, Franz Ha pel and Stephen Hahnel, the ringleaders and Mathias Stetka, Martin Stikul, Karl Kin kal, Johann Wopateckm, Karl Morswatz Joseph Senhenal, Michael Wellner, Mathia Fleischhaus, Joseph Komarek and Karl Ket sel, in view of the recent Anarchist exploit in Europe, will be followed with the keeness interest here, and in the United States as well, for the prisoners are said to be closely connected with the Anarchists of America.

The Anarchists were tracked and arrested n the most sensational manner. It is a matter of regret that this important trial is to be tions of a remarkable kind are expected the correspondents which, it is expected will enable them to furnish from day to day accurate reports of the proceedings of the important secret tribunal.

It should be added that some of the most extraordinary exhibits ever brought into a court will be shown to-day during the proceedings of the secret tribunal.

THE PLOT. The history of the plot in which the men to be tried to-day were connected is most interesting. They will be shown to have been in touch with the anarchists of England and America, and the trial may be expected to throw some light upon the international organization and action of a body whose reckless crimes have outraged the whole reckless crimes have outraged the whole world.

During the months of July and August last, the Austrian police were greatly exercised by the successful dissemination among the working classes, and among every section of the army, of dangerous, seditious and violently revolutionary pamphiets, leaflets and all sorts of "appeals to the masses" to rise against the existing order of things.

The work of distribution was carried on so mysteriously by night that for a long time it seemed impossible to trace the authors. Every quarter of the city was scoured by the seemed Impossible to trace the authors. Every quarter of the city was scoured by the most expert detectives until at length the headquarters of the revolutionary gang was discovered in Slebenbrunnengasse, a poor street in the Margarethen district of the capital. The house forming the Anarchist headquarters was No. 65. No time was lost in planning a "raid." The two men whose arrest was in the first instance contemplated, were Franz Haspel and Stefan Hahnel, both journeymen cabinetmakers.

small body of detectives posted themselves opposite No. 65. They had ascertained that one of the two men so urgently "wanted," one of the two men so urgently "wanted," Hahnel, had to begin his work in the factory where he was employed at 6 o'clock. In due course Hahnel appeared and before he had proceeded dozen yards up the street he was a prisoner. The arrest was effected without the slightest fuss, Hahnel being taken completely off his guard. His pockets having been searched, he was marched off to the lockup. Upon the person of the prisoner the detectives found a latch key of the dwelling which Hahnel shared with his still uncaptured fellow conspirator.

The dwelling which the police had thus successfully invaded consisted of a room and kitchen. A thorough search of the house was then begun. The furniture of the sitting room consisted of an oblong couch covered with black American leather, a small brown-painted table, a painted night-stool, a trunk, a wardrobe and two or three chairs. A close inspection of these articles of furniture yielded startling results.

While two of the detectives guarded the prisoner the others examined the couch. A close inspection revealed the existence of a secret lock. This was broken with considerable difficulty, and then the innocent couch Examination of the night stool revealed the existence of a secret compartment full of revolutionary pamphiets and leaflets exactly corresponding with those that had in the first instance excited the suspicion of the authorities.

AN ARSENAL OF BOMBS. The large trunk was next examined. It contained surprises which threw those of the contained surprises which tirew those of the couch and table completely in the shade. The detectives when they forced the lock found inside a perfect arsenal of explosive bombs all ready to be charged, some in glass and some in metal, and, in addition, metal cases, tubes, wires, clock: works and implements of various kinds for fitting these together. The necessary explosives for charging these infernal machines were also discovered.

There were also discovered, in the course of the investigation, revolvers with a supply of ammunition to fit them, and a large amount of stationery for printing and correspondence purposes.

Finally, in a wardrobe, the police found one or more coats with swivels or books attached to the linings for the purpose of carrying bonds.

While the search was in progress a determined attempt at suicide was made by the prisoner Haspel, who had been found in the rooms. When he saw that all was discovered he thrust aside the detectives and endeavored to throw himself out of the window.

Marie Jansen at the Olympic-"Flag of Truce" at Hagan-Other Attractions.

The 8-act farce, "Delmonico's at 6," in which Miss Marie Jansen is starring this season, and in which opened her engageent at the Olymyic last night, is not very different from dozens of other farce with which the playgoing public has been regaled for years past, nor is it noticeably newer or better, but it has the advantage of having this bright and laughing actress in a new line and is scoring a satisfactory sucess for that reason. In 'Delmonico's at 6' Miss Jansen has the role of Trixie Hazelmere, a vaudeville favorite, and the plot of the Farce is made of a lot of complications and entanslements among her admirers, the three scenes of the story's development being respectively the home of one of these admirers, a married physician, a dining-room at Delmonico's and the apartments of Miss Hazelmere. The complications of the story as aforsaid bring into play the familiar adjuncts of convenient rooms in which are concealed at various times various admirers of the dashing vaudeville heroine, the useful screen behind which at one time or another nearly all the deville heroine, the useful screen behind which at one time or another nearly all the characters are hidden listening to other characters discussing them, and indulging in by-play for the benefit of the audience, and other "helps" to the flow of face-comedy fun suggestive of the properties of other farce comedies that have gone before. The story s not located amid the "stirring scenes of is not located amid the "stirring scenes of war" but is rather a reflection of the war cloud as it shadowed a peaceful Eastern home. It is full of startling incidents and has a plot of satisfactory interest. The great scene of the production is in the fourth act, the stone quarry, where a new stage effect, the biasting of huge rocks, etc., is introduced. The attempted murder of the hero by placing him underneath a derrick, lowering a huge bowlder, is the feature of this act and scores an immediate success with the audience by its realism. Adoph Lestina and Paul Menifiee, as Tom and Jim Hewins, the leading parts, do acceptable work in the teiling of the story of "A Flag of Lestina and Paul Menifee, as Tom and Juliewins, the leading parts, do acceptable work in the teiling of the story of "A Fiag of Truce," Miss Alice Endres as Annie, Mis Cordie Davega as Hattle and hiss Jost Bacon as Anida, an old Irish nurse, are pleasing, while Henry Hanscombe as William Hillon, the villain of the plot, is appropriately scheming, unscrupulous and desperate.

Prof. Selidon favored a graduated income tax that would fail on every income exceeding $750 as in England. The Cause of the Present Stagnation o Trade and Non-Employment of Labor -The Single Tax Idea Making Way Rapidly-How Its Substitution for Other Forms of Taxation Will Bemedy

NEW YORK, Feb. 19,-Henry George, the advocate of the single tax doctrine, while in favor of the adoption of the Wilson tariff bill as one step in the direction of the adoption of his theory of taxation, is not a champion of the income tax. When asked to-day if he favored the measure, he said:

"No, but I prefer an income tax to a tariff tax for the reason that it does not so enlist but an income tax is in itself essentially up at through it-an equalization in the distribution of wealth. It cannot be fairly col-lected, nor will it touch the causes of the and the unjustly poor. There is a better tax than the income tax—the single tax—and I think, as the Republican Johnson of Indiana said in the tariff debate, that the Democratic party, or at least the radical wing, which is all that in a little while will be left of the Democratic party, is headed for that. There

'That was proposed in the recent debate in the House, was it not??"

"Yes; the amendment proposed by Maguire of California to the income tax involved the single tax idea. It got six votes—that is to say, six Representatives, calling for sa division, stood up to be counted for it, and at their own request got their names inserted recording votes in the committee of the those in which the House then was. They were Maguire of California, Jerry Simpson of Kansas, Johnson and Harter of Ohio and Warner and Tracey of New York. This was Warner and Tracey of New York. This was the first entrance of the single tax into Congress, and the yote was twice as much as I had expected. For many of the men who would have wished to yote for it were substantially pledged in favor of the income tax, and the nature of Maguire's substitute for that tax would not have been understood among their constituents, to whom their-yoting for it would have seemed like a surrender. But the proposition will grow in strength as it is understood, and as the income tax shows again its weakness in practical application there will be a turning to this measure, for the principle is of itself making steady and rapid progress." steady and rapid progress."
"What was the nature of Maguires proposal?"

'The re-enactment of the old direct tax, apportioned among the States in proportion to populations and levied not upon the value of land and improvements, as previous di-rect taxes have been, but only upon land

But would not that bear heavily on the

"But would not that bear heavily on the Western States?"

"No. A tax levied as before upon the value of land and improvements would. And that has been the great objection to the direct tax. But striking out improvements and levying the tax only on the value of land it would not. A great part of the land of the West is owned in the East and in Europe. That is also true of improvements—railroads, for instance—though not in so great a degree. But any tax on improvements must fall finally upon the residents of the state, who are the users of the improvements. So that by exempting improvements, all that part of the tax which must fall necessarily upon the people of the State, whether they are owners or not, is omitted, and only that is left which will fall to owners, whether they are residents of the State, whether they are residents of the State, whether they are residents of the State or not. Now, taking mortrages into account, it is only an exaggeration to say that the West is owned in the East and in Europe. A tax by population, which would seem to fall unequally on the West when jevied as Maguire proposes. In fact, the heavier it was the better it would be for the West, as it would the more quickly clean out the absentee owners who are increasingly draining the wealth produced in the West.

"Maguire's bill proposed to treat the mortgagor and mortgagees?"

"Maguire's bill proposed to treat the mortgagor and mortgages?"

"Maguire's bill proposed to treat the mortgagor and mortgage as the real owner. That could not be escaped, for no matter where he may be the owner of land must pay a tax levied on the value of land or, as the economists call it, on 'rent.'"

"You say the single tax idea is advance."

"You say the single tax idea is advancing?"
"Everywhere, and far faster than any great movement ever advanced before. The London County Council has by an overwhelming vote just insisted on presenting it to Parliament as its demand as to the mode of collecting taxes for London. In New Zealand the large measure of it adopted in the Ballance act, by bringing prosperity where there was before stagnation and decil me and making that colony the one prosperous part of the civilized world, has so proved its advantages that in the recent elections those

"Somewhat and for a little time. But you have only to ask yourself what the present distrass?"

"Somewhat and for a little time. But you have only to ask yourself what the present distress is lo see that it comes from something deeper than the tariff. It is admittedly distress of the unemployed—men willing to work and able to work, but who cannot find opportunity to work. Now, tariffs lessen the monopolization of land, in the specialtion in land values that has gone on all over the monopolization of land, in the specialtion in land values that has gone on all over the United States, is the real cause of the distress. You will find the whole cause and course of these ladustrial depressions worked out in my 'Progress and Poverty,' a book written at the close of the last great industrial depression, and which has for its subtitle 'The Cause of Industrial Depression.' Briefly, it is that material progress increases the value of land, This being left to individual owners land speculation sets in and the price of land sdvances till it reaches a point at which capital and labor cannot pay these prices and retain their accustomed profits and production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side a checking of production is on the other side at the strain better than either labor or capital. The sewer in the alley between Sixth and Seventh streets and between Loughborough avenue and Haven street is again in a dangerous condition. The recent rains have caused another cave-in of the sewer at a about sixty feet Loughborough avenue, leaving a large hole about twenty feet deep into hole about twenty feet deep into which a horse or man is likely to fall. The sewer seems to have been but poorly constructed at this point, as this is the third time that the earth has caved in above it. A SEVERED CABLE.

How Some Miscreant Caused Death and Disaster.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 19 .- One of th nest novel and thrilling accidents in the history of the State occurred here yesterday afternoon. For some time a private com pany has been operating a cable line across the Tennessee River from a point just below the town to Longstreet Heights, on the opposite side. The sustaining cabletretched at a height of 200 feet above the water, and a car hung to it was operated ack and forth by an endless rope of steel. The outfit soon became a great attraction for pleasure seekers, and hundreds enjoyed the excitement of the transit on every pleasant pleasure seekers, and hundreds enjoyed the excitement of the transit on every pleasant day.

Yesterday the line was well patronized and the car made frequent trips from the Knox-ville side to Longstreet bluffs. At 3:30 p. m. the car started on the fatal trip, with eight passengers aboard, Miss Alice Waddie, win. Kibby, Fred and Frank McBee, G. M. Phillips, C. F. Lewis, Henry Hatcher and Oliver Ledgerwood, the last named a well-known young attorney of this city. When the car was within 6 feet of the landing on the bluff the drawing cable broke, and, the brake failing to act, the car dashed back down the incline at frightful speed. In recoiling the broken cable took on a revolving motion, and before the car could cross the abyss to the Knoxville side the whirling cable wrapped about it, crushing the sides of the car together.

One end of the broken cable struck Ledgerwood, killing him instantly. The other passengers tried to leap from the windows, but the cable obstructed them, and they were finally quieted by the brakeman. When the car stopped it was directly over the middle of the river, 200 feet from the water, the stream at this point being seventy feet deep. Several hundred persons witnessed the accident from the bunks, and as soon as the first panic had subsided a tug was secured and the affighted passengers were released from the car by a rope.

Testimony taken by the Coroner last night Showed that the cable had been cut with a cold chisel in the hands of some miscreant as vet unknown.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 19 .- An unknow white man drowned himself in the Cumberland River about 6:30 o'clock this morning He jumped from the bridge connecting East Nashville with the main portion of the city.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 19 .- A romantic story has developed from the death of W. C. Winthrop about two months ago. It appears that his mother married W. W. Winthrop, a young physician, and he was their only child. When the war came the father went to the front and afterwards spent several years in Asia Minor. When he returned to this coun try he did not join his wife, and his where-abouts were unknown to her. The son, how-ever, found him, and on his dying bed sent his father a message which resulted in the reunion of father and mother.

Pennsylvania Election.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 19 .- The people of Pennsylvania will hold an election to-morrow for the purpose of choosing a Congress man-at-large to succeed Gen. Lilly, recently deceased. It is of course a certainty that the candidate nominated by the Republicans will be chosen. But this election has received a peculiar interest through the personality of that candidate. The party has nominated Galusha A. Grow, the protection leader, whose name thirty years ago was on every lip, and who was a commanding figure among the statesmen of Lincoin's and Seward's time. His opponent is A. W. Hancock.

Mayor Duncan of Lexington and Edite Baxter Try to Adjust Their Difficulty.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 19.-It is probable that an agreement will be reached at an early date between the warring officials and newspaper men here. It was agreed Saturday that Col. John R. Aller and Mr. D. T. Baxter, the former representing Mayor Henry T. Duncan and the latte the Transcript, should meet at the Phoenix Hotel this morning and try and adjust the matter. Henry T. Dun-can, Jr., in an interview Sunday, said nothing but a complete retraction by the Transcript would suffice. This put the proposed conference out of the question, and the Duncan side was notified of this fact. Word was then sent by the Mayor that the matter could be left to arbitrators, and named Leslie Combs as the man. Mr. Baxter of the Transcript picked Charles Kerr, a young attorney, who selected a third man, and a conference is being held.

The principals are all armed to the teeth, and unless the matter is settled immediately the first meeting is apt to result in a tragedy of the Goodloe-Swope order. said nothing but a complete retraction

WITHOUT FOUNDATION. The Story of the Arrest of Grocer John Lienhop in Germany.

A short time ago John Lienhop, a wealthy and popular grocer at Twenty-third and O'Fallon streets, decided to pay a visit to his old home in Germany. Mr. Lienhop had scarcely landed on the other side when the report was circulated among his old friends that he had been arrested on setting his foot on German soil as a deserter from the German army. As Mr. Lienhop is a from the German army. As Mr. Lienhop is a citizen of the United States it was thought that the case might develop into an international one. The fears of his friends were set at rest by the receipt of a letter from Lienhop by his wife announcing that he would be home next week.

Mrs. Lienhop was seen at her residence, 2257 O'fallon street, to-day by a Post-Disparch reporter, to whom she stated that the story of her husband's arrest and detention in Germany as a deserter from the German army was not true and that it had been started by his intimate friends as a practical joke and to frighten her.

"Mr. Lienhop was never in the German army," said Mrs. Lienhop. "He left Germany," said Mrs. Lienhop. "He left Germany, when he was quite young and came to this country to avoid serving in the army. He has written me that he will be home next week."

were the reasons given on this occasion, and after due deliberation it was decided to accept the same.

On each occasion when Dr. Barnes has sought to relinquish his position sundry rumors of trouble and internal dissensions in the faculty have been circulated, nor is this any exception to the rule. It is alleged that petty jealousies and trifling, though very annoying quarrels, led to the resignation of both Dr. Barnes and Dr. Cole. These rumors are, however denied by all members of the faculty, who say that matters were never more pleasant or harmonious than at present. They deny the existence of any misunderstanding of any kind.

A change was made in the staff of the college a short time ago, when Dr. J. W. Smith, assistant to the Professor of Surgery, was dismissed by the Dean. Dr. Smith had occupied his position but for about a year and is said to have been most active and efficient. He gave cause for complaint some time ago by his practice of attending to surgical cases himself instead of turning them over to Prof. Louis Bauer for illustrations in his clinics. He was remonstrated with and afterwards, Dr. Bauer said, sent him one case and no more. This dismissal, the college faculty state, was due to the fact that he received and pocketed fees from patients who went to the college for treatment, a course of proceedure strictly against the rules. #### HIS REMOVAL BY THE MAYOR NOT IN PROPER LEGAL FORM.

Rold Is Entitled to Retain His Office streef, says the cause of the attempt was the Duestrow tragedy.
Yaeger and Duestrow were schoolmates years ago before the elder Duestrow became wealthy. Their intimacy has continued since, and George took the crime of his friend greatly to heart. The shooting occured at Kollman's, store. Before committing the deed Yaeger went upstairs over the shop where Mrs. Mary Henry lived and told her he was going to shoot himself.

"Good buy, Aunt Mary," he said, "you won's see me alive again."
He tried to shake hands with the woman, and also with her girl, Carrie Branley, but they put him off thinking he was joking. Finally he went out and down to his own room back of the meatshop. They could hear him take off his shoes and life down. Then the pistol shot rang out, and they knew that he had been telling the truth.

Mrs. Henry rushed down stairs.

"Idult!" head, "Give me a cigarette. Until the Court Has Finally Passed on the Proceedings Instituted by Him -The Court Thinks Its Present Order Sufficiently Clear.

Judge Valliant to-day overruled the motion made by the City Counselor to make more definite and certain the order of Feb. 2, in the case of the State to the use Feb. 2 was for the Mayor to produce in court the records of the Reid trial and to postpone the removal of the Building Commissioner until the case is disposed of by the court.
Judge Vallant handed down a lengthy opinion in which he said: "The motion of the respondent now under consideration assumes that the relator (the Building commissioner) had already been removed from office when the writ of certiorari was that assumption. The record in the case hows that the Mayor pronounced judgment declaring that he thereby removed the relator from office, but there has been no execution or enforcement of the no execution or enforcement of the judgment, and no exclusion in fact of the relator from the office. If that judgment proves to be valid the relator will unquestionably be forcibly ejected if necessary to give the judgment effect. The record shows that the Mayor caused written notice of the judgment to be served on the relator, but that was unnecessary and of no legal effect. The judgment was certainly not valid unless the relator had notice of the proceeding and if he had legal notice of that, the law charges him with notice of the judgment."

of the proceeding and if be had legal notice of that, the law charges him with notice of the judgment."

The judge then took up the precedents cited by the City Counselor to support his contentions and said in conclusion: "The attitude of the relator in this case therefore is that of one in office against whom a judgment of removal from office has been rendered, but which judgment was suppended before it was put into execution, and he is entitled to hold the office and no one has the right to molest him under authority of that suspended judgment until the final judgment of this court. In my judgment this would have been without an express order of supersedeas, but the order was so made to avoid misapprehension, and these views are now given in deference to the request of the learned City Counselor to remove any misapprehension that may have arisen in regard to the meaning and effect of the order of Feb. 2. The order appears to sufficiently clear for its purposes and I see no necessity for adding anything to it."

City Comptroller Sturgeon, who also refused to sign some vouchers sent him, said:

Man-No Quorum on Friday Nights to Consider Pension Bills-Hustling in the Patent Office-American Flour in Africa-Washington News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 19,- The Ways and Means Committee has preserved a special bunch of papers containing remarkable prop country as to the means for meeting the a tax of $10 each on each base ball or foot ball club in the country and an additional $10 for every game of base ball or foot ball played. Another proposition is that a reduction of 10 per cent be made on all salaries to government officers, over $1,000, their reduction to continue until the hard imes are over. Another reformer proposes on revolvers, pistols, dirks, daggers, and other weapons used in committing bodily Various plans for protecting working men have been suggested, one of these being a tax of $100 on every immigrant coming to this country to work.

Some of those propositions have contained threats of various natures. One man at Columbus, O., has sent many threatening postal cards, written in red ink, expressing purpose of killing members of the com ittee. Each of this man's letters bears the impress of a large seal, similar to a notarial eal. In the circular margin of this are the words, "Marshal of the United States," and within the circle, "State of Ohio." The seal is well executed and gives the letters an appearance of being the work of some anai chistic organization, though they are beleved to be sent by one man. No effort has been made to apprehend the writer, as he is regarded as harmless, but the letters may be turned over to the Inspectors of the Post-office Department.

SLIM NIGHT SESSIONS. Congressmen with private pension bills to push will find it up-hill work in this Congress. There is a rule setting apart Friday lights for the consideration of these bills, nights for the consideration of these bills, but last Friday night only half a hundred members were present, and Representative Kilgore of Texas raised the point of no quorum, and all legislation is blocked.

Night sessions are proverbially slimly attended. Members with private pension bills have been making anxious inquiries today whether Mr. Kilgore intended to establish a principle, and expects to continue demanding quorums on Friday nights. They realize that it will be impossible for private bills to pass if this requirement is adhered to, because seldom is there more than one member interested in a bill, and the combined forces of those with such measures in charge would not constitute a quorum. Other members are hardly expected to acquire enough interest to sit through the evening session.

When Mr. Kilgore was questioned regarding his intentions to-day he replied:

"I am afraid there will have to be a quorum to pass pension bills. On general principles, I do not think any business should be transacted without a majority of members, certainly not by a handful of members, certainly not by a handful of members, certainly not by a handful of members, certainly for infinite sessions seems to have been intended to provide an easy passage for private bills. I do not believe in most of these private bills, any way, particularly with a depleted Treasury.

Jost per deserved can be secured through the Pension Office. Others which are deserved can be secured through the Pension Office. Others which are of sufficient importance to come before Congress are importance come to residered by a majority of the members."

Congress are importance to come before Congress are important enough to be considered by a majority of the members."

The Committee on Private Pensions has been very conservative in this session, recommending but a few deserving cases for action, most of them relatives of veterans of the revolution and war of 1812, or Mexican war veterans.

HUSTLING IN THE PATENT OFFICE rears than at any time in the past seven or pared by Assistant Commissioner Fisher. It pared by Assistant Commissioner Fisher. It shows that while seven years ago one division was between six and seven months in arrears, now the greatest arrear in any division is four months. Then there were more than 10,000 applications for patents on hand, while the number now, pending is about 6,500. The work of the office relating to designs and trade-marks, of which there are only sixty-three of the former and forty of the latter pending, is less than a month in arrears.

In a report at the State Department from United States Consul Jewitt from Sierra Leone, Africa, on the American flour consumption there the Consul says that, while sumption there the Consul says that, while the standard of living is not high, the use of American flour is extending, as shown by the fact that the imports increased from 6,500 barrels in 1891 to 11,500 in 1893. He sees no obstacles to the extension of the trade and thinks the prospect is good for a large business, as all of the flour imported is American and the best grades are preferred. The United States Consul at Suives, Turkey, relating to the subject, holds no hope for present or future business, as the people are wretchedly poor and ignorant and prefer their own coarse, half-crushed meals. The transportation difficulties also constitute a formidable obstacle to trade, and there are no goods to offer in sychange.

FOSTMASTERS COMPLAINING

They Confer With the House Committee on Post-Offices and Post Roads. WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 19 .- The House Committee on Post-offices and Post Roads re sumed to-day its consideration of the plan proposed in a bill by Representative Dunphy of New York, and indorsed by the Post-office Department, for making sep-arate appropriations for the ten largest offices. It was noted in the annual arate appropriations for the ten largest offices. It was noted in the annual report of the Postmaster-General that 30 per cent of the receipts of the 88, 403 offices come from the cities of New York, Chicago. Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Brooklyn, San Francisco, Baltimore and Pittsburg.

There were present to-day Postmasters Dayton of New York, Hessing of Chicago, Carr of Philadelphia, Sullivan of Brooklyn and Johnson of Baltimore.

Postmaster Sullivan of Brooklyn described the inconveniences under which the officers labored from being compelled to secured the approval of the departmeet before any contingent expenditures be made.

Postmaster Hessing of Chicago represented that the phenomenal growth of Chicago had not been met by corresponding improvements in postal facilities. The greatest concentration of railway postal business for distribution, he said, is at Chicago, so that its receipts are not comparative to the business done. The great expanse of the city, the hundreds of miles of streets and the unusually high buildings made it impossible for carriers to make the same schedule time that they do in other cities. The Rookery Building alone, with 4,000 business men, required the services of three carriers, maxing six trips a day. The Post-office building, he said, was an architectural abortion, unsanitary, condemned by the Health Department, with insufficient space, light and air, Additional carrier services was needed for the seventy square miles covered by the free delivery system, the abolition of the fifty-eight branch offices.

The officer brought his prison to the Fourth District Police Station where he gave the name of William Kraemer and stated that he was 29 years old. After being locked up for a short while Kraemer made a statement in which he confessed that during the night he had burgiarized the residence of Dr. Harry Cummings, at 2215 N. opening-Track Talk. In a communication to the Post-Dispatch Ward H. Mills, press agent of the Hot Springs race track, says that the three books in line down there are kept very busy hand ling the money in circulation and frequently average $2,000 to a race. According to Mr. Mills, the local pool room proprietors purchased the foreign book privilege at the track, when the meeting was just opened, because they knew the big betters would go there and their rooms would be day was criticised in the following manner by one of the Chicago turf writers:

The sight of jockeys muffled in sweaters, a starter enveloped in snowboots and a huge overcoat, while the aufertunate counterfeit crabs shiver is every limb, is hardly conductive to the best interest of racing. For the initial day, the racing was apparently 'on the level,' but what a mark the wise winter track horseman of the work o

Judge J.'J. Burke says: "It is not generally known that Starter Dick Dwyer was once one of Jacob Pincus' boys. He lived at or near Monmouth Park in those days. Pincus at that time trained for John F. Chamberlain, I think. Speaking of Tom Ochiltree (the horse) Pincus said: 'He was lame as a 2-year-old, and we never could find out what the trouble was until a place of graval worked out of the and we never could find out what the trouble was until a piece of gravel worked out of the front of the hoof at the coronet.' Dwyer has certainly made a great name for himself as starter at the East St. Louis track. Public and press are with him and his work at Roby ought to be first-class.'

PUGILISTIC FOINTERS.

Another Good Story on Tom Allen-Yale Prohibits Bexing.

Tom Allen has not been heard of much in print since the Corbett-Mitchell mill, according to Joseph Donovan. Masterson, Hall, Pony- Horse Moore and the rest of them have remained singularly quiet. Tom these days is very proud and pompous. On the strength of his once being a "Birmingham roughschool fighter." he measures his movements with great accuracy and steps loftler than a blue rooster with sore feet. The reason Mr. blue rooster with sora feet. The reason Mr. Allen has had no views to express anent the battle was all on account of an unforessen incident, which is now told for the first time. The day of the fight Allen settled himself in the rear of the Mitchell corner, where he could best see a native Birmingham scrapper teach the new order of fellows a wholesome lesson. Tom saw the men face each other for battle, but just then, as luck would have it, he sneezed, and when the fog lifted the fight was over.

"I wouldn't have cared so much," said Tom, "but blow me if I'd sneezed before for ten years."

Tom, "but blow me if I'd sneezed before for ten years."

The proposed contest between "Dutch" Nell of St. Louis and Dick O'Brien, the New England weiterweight, has been declared off. O'Brien and Billy Hennessy ("Mysterious Billy" Smith's old sparring partner) will box a limited-round contest in Boston, March 26. Nell and O'Brien were to come together for an $800 parse, $150 of which was to go to the loser. Nell wanted $100 training expenses, however, which the Boston people did not care to advance. The St. Louis boy will go to Hot Springs next Wednesday, where he will join Daniel Needham and commence training at once for a finish fight with Jim Barron, the Australian.

The Yale faculty has announced that no more boxing will be permitted at any athletic exhibitions given under the auspices of that college. Boxing has been opposed by the faculty, and the knocking out of one man recently has intensified that opposition until it is believed the time is not far remote when it will be forbidden at Yale altogether.
